#Provident Fund Contribution Option:

As permitted by the Employees Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952 and its Rules, at the time of joining, if you give your written consent, Company will provide you an option to limit your Provident Fund Contribution to maximum monthly wage ceiling defined by EPF authority (Currently it is Rs. 15,000/- per month) instead of on the entire basic salary mentioned in this salary break-up sheet. You understand and agree that if you explicitly consent to choose the above mentioned option, you will see following impact in your monthly pay slip.

- There is no impact on your Gross salary and CTC salary as stipulated under Annexure A.
- Both Employee's contribution and Company contribution to E.P.F will be lesser than what is mentioned in the salary break-up sheet under Annexure A -I point no. 3. Differential amount will be shown under "Special Pay I" in your pay slip. Income tax deduction benefit would reduce to that extent.
- As EPF deductions are less, your take home pay would be more than what is stipulated under Annexure A. This will attract appropriate income tax.

You agree and understand that as and when the EPF authorities revise maximum monthly wage ceiling (currently Rs. 15,000/- per month) appropriate changes will be made keeping the same principle, i.e. limiting both employee and employer contribution to statutory wage ceiling, as long as it is permitted by the law.

Yours sincerely,

For Persistent Systems
